US forces return to Lebanon

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Reagan said Monday he is ordering the Marines back into Lebanon in the wake of the massacre of Palestinian refugees there, to help "bring that nightmare to an end."

Reagan, in a broadcast to the nation, also declared that "it is essential that Israel withdraw from Beirut."

"For our friends in Lebanon and Israel; for our friends in Europe and elsewhere in the Middle East; and for us as Americans, this tragedy, horrible as it is, reminds us of the absolute imperative of bringing peace to that troubled country and region."

"By working for peace in the Middle East, we serve the cause of world peace, and the future of mankind," he said.

Reagan said the Marines would again be joined in their mission by units from France and Italy. The same nations sent the peacekeeping force which oversaw the withdrawal of Palestine Liberation Organization fighters from Beirut early this month.

Reagan made clear that his decision to return American troops to Beirut was pinned to the recent massacre of Palestinians in their refugee camps.

"The scenes that the whole world witnessed this past weekend were among the most heartrending in the long nightmare of Lebanon's agony. Millions of us have seen pictures of the Palestinian victims of this tragedy. There is little that words can add. But there are actions we can and must take to bring that nightmare to an end," he said.

"For the criminals who did this deed, no punishment is enough to remove the blot of their crime. But for the rest of us there are things that we can learn and things that we must do:

—"The people of Lebanon must have learned that the cycle of massacre upon massacre must end. Children are not avenged by the murder of other children."

—"Israel must have learned that there is no way it can impose its own solutions on hatreds as deep and bitter as those that produced this tragedy. If it seeks to do so, it will only sink more deeply into the quagmire that looms before it."

—"Those outsiders who have fed the flames of civil war in Lebanon for so many years need to learn that the fire will consume them too if it is not put out."

—"And we must all rededicate ourselves to the cause of peace. I re-emphasize my call for early progress to solve the Palestinian issue and repeat the U.S. proposals which are now even more urgent."

America, France and Italy, reacting to the massacre of hundreds of Palestinian refugees in west Beirut, will reform their peacekeeping force and send it back to the bloodied Lebanese capital.

Red Cross workers resumed the grisly cleanup task at the refugee camps, collecting 120 bodies and preparing a mass grave for many of the victims.

In a nationally televised address, President Reagan announced that he was ordering U.S. Marines back to Beirut as part of a new multinational force.

Attendance could influence grading

by Ron Wesel

Eastern instructors could be allowed to use class attendance as a factor in determining students' final grades as early as next fall if a proposed policy change is approved.

A Council on Academic Affairs subcommittee has completed a tentative revision of Eastern's class attendance policy in which teachers basing grades on attendance would first have to gain departmental approval, announce the policy and give a written reason for it on the first day of class.

"If we are able to get it (the revision) into the catalog by Oct. 15 it will become effective in the fall," Subcommittee Chairman Sharon Bartling said.

Ron Wohlstein, a member of the subcommittee, said the revision came up when some students and faculty questioned whether an instructor can use attendance as a basis in determining a student's final grade.

Eastern's current attendance policy states, "the instructor will not use the mere fact of absence as a factor in determining a final course grade since such evaluations are based on achievement and are expected to measure learning—not attendance."

The subcommittee's rough draft of the revision states, "Instructors who plan to use attendance directly in figuring the final grade must have departmental approval and must indicate this intention and the reason in writing on the first day of class."

Bartling said the revision "states the policy more clearly."

Council and faculty members agreed that an attendance policy revision was needed, she noted. However, she added "there is no radical change."

"I think it's going to make it much easier for them (the students) to understand the new policy," Bartling said.

The committee would also like to delete the last two paragraphs of the current policy because they deal with the instructor and have nothing to do with the students, Wohlstein said.

The two paragraphs of the policy state instructors' responsibilities in regards to students' attendance, and what instructors should do if there are excessive absences.

The committee has also proposed minor revisions for the beginning of the policy, which would make those paragraphs easier to understand.

Student committee member Ann Hoy said, "I think it will help because they (the students) will know what is expected of them. The old policy is too vague."

Hoy is expected to present the revision to the Student Senate on Wednesday and Bartling will attempt to present the change to the CAA at their Thursday meeting.

Bartling said, "if we get it in, the proposal will not be voted on until next Thursday after the council holds discussion."

Members of the attendance policy subcommittee met with four Student Senate members and Dean of Student Academic Services Samuel Taber last Tuesday to make suggestions for the revision.

Mayor expects council to approve bond sale

by Michael Kuo

Charleston Mayor Bob Hickman said Sunday he expects the city council will approve the sale of industrial revenue bonds to a local real estate developer for the construction of a Wal-Mart store in Charleston.

Controversy arose recently when Charleston developer John Young requested $2 million in bonds to construct a Wal-Mart store adjacent to the Eisner-Osco shopping center on Lincoln Avenue. Young owns the property.

Industrial revenue bonds carry a lower rate of interest for the holder and do not fluctuate with other market values. The bonds also are tax-exempt for the purchaser.

Area merchants have voiced opposition to a retail operation receiving such bonds and have circulated petitions opposing their issuance.

Hickman said he was "pretty sure that the IRB's will be approved."

"The vote at last Tuesday's meeting was four to one for placing the proposal on file for public inspection for a week," Hickman said.

He added there have not been any "major changes" since Tuesday's meeting.

Commissioner Wayne Lanman said, "I voted against putting it on file last Tuesday. I wanted to vote on the proposal one way or the other."

Lanman added, "I imagine I will vote the same way this week." However, he declined to speculate on the outcome of Tuesday's vote on the proposal.

The council will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the council chambers, 520 Jackson Ave.

News Round-Up

Prayer issue debated

WASHINGTON—Senate conservatives, still seeking their first victory in a month-long debate over social issues, failed by 10 votes Monday to curtail a filibuster against legislation designed to restore organized prayer in public schools.

The legislation would eliminate Supreme Court jurisdiction over the prayer issue, including any law approved by a state legislature or a ruling by lower court.

Once the Supreme Court is barred from deciding prayer cases, Sen. Charles Mathias Jr., R-Md., said in a Senate floor speech on Friday, "there is no area of human endeavor that could not be reached by simple act of Congress... Tomorrow our most basic constitutional protections could be at stake."

Income increases slightly

WASHINGTON—Americans' personal income rose just 0.3 percent in August, the least since March, the government reported Monday. The gain was probably really a loss after subtracting the effects of inflation.

Consumers' spending rose a bit more—0.7 percent. And economists and government officials said they still expected the July tax-rate cut and other recent income gains to encourage Americans to spend even more, thus helping pull the economy out of its 13-month recession.

One private economist, Allen Gutheim of Wharton Econometrics, said "it could be several months" before big spending increases show up, perhaps not before the beginning of the Christmas buying season.

Kennedy urges changes

ATLANTIC CITY N.J.—Senator Edward M. Kennedy urged a cheering convention of the United Steelworkers union Monday to use the ballot box in November to change a government he called "the most anti-labor, anti-worker administration in modern history."

He criticized the Reagan administration for what he called an inadequate response to steel imports that have taken one-quarter of the U.S. market.

Talks collapse; Reagan calls for Congress to end railroad strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Reagan on Monday asked Congress to bring a halt to the nationwide rail strike after talks between the railroads and engineer's union collapsed and a federal mediator reported "no reasonable prospect" of a settlement.

"The nation cannot afford a prolonged rail strike," Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis told reporters after meeting with the president. "It is clear that any long-term rail strike could have serious impact on the national defense and the economy."

Within minutes of the announcement at the White House, Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker said the House and the Senate would begin separate hearings on the president's request Tuesday morning.

Lewis said the president wants Congress to approve legislation that would impose on the railroads and engineers the recommendations of a special presidential commission established during the 60-day cooling off period that ended Sunday.

That commission urged that the hotly disputed issue of wage differentials between 26,000 locomotive engineers and other train crew talks after the overall contract is approved. It also urged a "no strike" requirement on the union over the pay differences.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, whose walkout early Sunday halted most of the nation's rail freight service and some passenger trains, has opposed the special commission's recommendation on pay differences.

But union president John Sytsma said the union would abide by a congressional mandate. In a statement issued by union's headquarters in Cleveland, Sytsma said: "We are an old and respected and law-abiding organization."

The president's move came hours after industry and union bargainers broke off face-to-face negotiations after failing to make any progress during three hours of meetings. Both sides agree the issue in dispute was whether the engineers should be able to maintain a wage differential over other crew members.

Hostages still held by terrorists

SAN PEDRO SULA, Honduras (AP)—The anti-terrorist Cobra Battalion on Monday ringed the building where guerrillas held an estimated 80 hostages, including two Cabinet ministers, and negotiators tried to end the four day siege.

About 10 guerrillas, who shot their way into the Chamber of Commerce building Friday, have made repeated threats to kill the hostages unless the Honduran government frees 80 people the guerrillas say are being held as political prisoners.

A top Honduran official, who requested anonymity, said it was hoped that the arrival Sunday of Andrea Cordero de Montezemolo, the papal nuncio for Honduras and Nicaragua, would help speed the negotiations between the government and the guerrillas.

Col. Daniel Belí Castillo, head of the Honduran security forces, said Monday he was unaware of any plans to take the building by force. Members of the anti-terrorist Cobra Battalion and scores of other army soldiers took positions around the one-story building in this industrial city 110 miles northwest of the Honduran capital of Tegucigalpa.

Negotiations with the guerrillas started Saturday, the day after about the guerrillas stormed the building.

Organization Day offered benefits

by Keith Clark

Organization Day offered many benefits to both students and participants, organizer Peggy Hanlon said.

Organization Day was designed to give Eastern's clubs and organizations an opportunity to receive exposure and increase memberships.

Clubs set up tables in the Union Walkway Friday to provide students with information about themselves. More than 40 groups participated, she said.

Hanlon said one benefit of the event was that clubs which are new or not widely known received exposure.

"Hardly anyone even knew that a women's Rugby Club was being formed, but today they have already signed up about 20 members," Hanlon said.

Hanlon said students also benefited from Organization Day because now they are aware of the many clubs that exist at Eastern.

Deann Leatherwood, vice-president of Women in Communications Inc., said one benefit of Organization Day was the relaxed atmosphere.

"Students could find out about clubs without being pressured," Leatherwood said.

Meave Spicer, an American Field Service representative, said the only disadvantage to this year's Organization Day was the lack of publicity.

"Organization Day needed more publicity so more students and clubs would have known about it,"

Spicer said.

Hanlon said the event will be scheduled again next year, but at a later date.

"This year, we thought that having it during the Union anniversary celebration would attract more students," Hanlon said. Next year we probably won't have it until after the Organization Club List comes out, which is sometime in October."

Exhibit to explain new drunk driving rules

By Jan Genis

To help inform college-age drivers about the hazards of drinking and driving, a Traffic Safety Exhibit is being presented by the Illinois Secretary of State's office Tuesday.

Eastern was one of 19 colleges and 30 shopping malls in Illinois asked to participate in the exhibit, Ellen Feldhausen, Secretary of State Jim Edgar's assistant press secretary, said.

The purpose of the exhibit is "to inform people about the new law and make them aware of the dangers of drunk driving," she said.

The law enacted in January introduced the possibility of a six-month license suspension for any driver refusing to take a breath test upon request. Previously, drivers had the option to delay the test for intoxication.

The law also changed the policy of allowing drivers convicted of drunk driving charges to drive with a

ICC to determine new power rates

by Michael Kuo

A decision on requested Central Illinois Public Service Co. rate increases will be made in November, a CIPS official said Friday.

During a press conference to announce the addition of new facilities to the company's Mattoon headquarters, Supervisor of Public Information Reg Ankrom answered questions about the pending Illinois Commerce Commission decision.

CIPS requested a 26.8 percent increase in electric rates and a 7.2 increase in natural gas billing last summer.

However, Ankrom conceded that the ICC is not likely to approve CIPS's full request for natural gas rate increases.

CIPS Eastern Division Manager Jack Lisenbee also formally announced the addition of a $1.2 million service center and a system dispatch complex located in Mattoon.

Although the buildings were constructed in 1979, Lisenbee said operations could not begin until this year.

"Since 1979, we've been coordinating the complex, making modifications, getting (the facilities) so that they are totally responsive to our needs," Lisenbee said.

Ankrom said he could not express an opinion on possible Illinois legislation that would lead to an elected ICC.

"We're before an appointed commission with a rate case right now. But we've read over the records of appointed and elected commissions, and appointed commissions seem to do just as good a job," he said.

"To be perfectly honest, as far as a company like CIPS is concerned, it really won't make a difference (if commissioners are elected)," he added.

temporary permit. Under the new law a convicted driver could lose his license for up to five years on the second offense.

Feldhausen said nearly half of the traffic fatalities in the state are caused by drinking and driving. However, since the new law became effective in January, fatality figures have decreased by 16 percent and arrest figures have increased by 70 percent.

The exhibit will include short films and brochures with information on the new law and the dangers of drinking and driving, Feldhausen said. People also will be able to participate in a test determining the amount of alcohol that can be legally consumed.

The exhibit has been presented at different schools each week since mid-August. Feldhausen said she believes the exhibit has been successful.

The exhibit will be on display from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday in the Union Walkway Lounge.

Gymnastics revision needs change

A decision made earlier this fall to combine the Lantz building gymnastics room and a weightroom should have been thought out more, and implementation of that decision should have been delayed until all possible alternatives were exhausted.

During the summer, Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin, Dean of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation Walter Lowell, Vice President for Academic Affairs Stanley Rives and Vice President of Administration and Finance George Miller and Athletic Director R.C. Johnson met to discuss the minimal space problem of the gymnastics and weightrooms.

The solution they agreed upon—to reduce the gymnastics equipment's space to occupy 30 percent of the room, and move weight-training equipment into the remaining 70 percent—was based upon high demand of the weight-training facilities.

Although it was clear that gymnasts and other students valued their space in the gymnastics room, more students appeared to be using the weight-training equipment, and the decision seemed to be a fair one in that it supposedly would accommodate a greater number of students.

Safety, however, was hardly considered in the decision. In addition to the inconvenience of limited space, students using the mats for floor exercise must contend with safety problems.

In order to practice high-power tumbling feats, one must build up speed; the limited space does not allow for this. Once the proper speed is achieved, a tumbler may easily hit a wall, a piece of equipment or another tumbler.

Editorial

Currently, a community services class for students ages six to 18 called "Acro-imps" is being taught in the cramped gymnastics room. If experienced gymnasts are concerned about safety hazards, what about beginners just learning basic stunts?

In addition, changing the room this late in the semester disrupts scheduled classes. Both gymnastics and weight-training classes are currently being conducted in the room. Class times overlap four hours each week and both must share the room.

The gymnastics course is required for the physical education major while the weight-training course is not required. Still, more students are enrolled in the weight-training course.

Although Lowell said the practice of having different classes share the room at the same time will be changed in the spring so only one class will occupy the room at a time, both classes still have to share the room for the remainder of the semester.

Administrators should not think they are "locked" into their decision. A committee formed to examine the situation might be able to present some alternatives which have not been considered before. In the interest of fairness, gymnasts and weight-trainers should be allowed to provide input.

The administration and students should work together to reach a decision that is fair to both groups.

Your turn

Driver treated unjustly

Editor:

On Sept. 10, a friend and I were coming from the east on Ninth Street on the north side of the Lutheran church. As I drove, I saw barricades to the right. The road in front of me seemed to be completed and I wanted to go south. However, instead of driving on the new road, I drove parallel to the new road in the church parking lot. Then, I pulled on the new road, drove approximately 25 yards and drove past a "road closed" sign.

Upon reaching Regency Apartments, I noticed the flashing lights of a police car. I immediately pulled over. Officer Fred Fasig approached my car and asked for my license. At that time, he said he was issuing me a $50 ticket. I very politely asked him why and he said because I had driven around a barricade. At that point, he asked me if I wanted to post my license or a $50 bond. I started to think for no more than five seconds when Officer Fasig very rudely said he was going to take my license. At that point, I told him I would rather post the bond. His comment then was, "I'm not going to ask you three or four times, make up your mind."

I graduated from Eastern two years ago. I only come to Charleston once a year. I am a law abiding citizen. I respect other people and I expected to be treated the same.

Technically, I may have been guilty of the offense, although I don't really think so. It's like people not using their turn signal on an isolated street. I feel that there comes a time when a little common sense is perhaps the solution to an incident such as the one I have described. I feel Officer Fasig could and should have merely brought to my attention the "road closed" sign was to all traffic and not just thru traffic. A $50 fine is completely out of line. And the manner in which Officer Fasig conducted himself was totally out of line. I feel the general public has enough public relations problems with police without the disrespectful actions such as Officer Fasig seemed to possess.

Mayor Hickman forgetting Charleston roots

It's Tuesday, Sept. 21, do you know where your mayor is today? The answer is probably "no" because he could be in either Charleston, Springfield or Chicago—take your pick.

For the past three weeks, we have been trying to get in touch with Charleston Mayor Bob Hickman concerning a feature article we are writing about him.

When we called Hickman's Charleston office, a secretary said he was in Springfield. Then we called Springfield and the secretary said he was in Charleston. When we finally thought we had tracked him down in Springfield, his secretary said he had just left for Chicago!

Having a part-time mayor poses a problem; getting in touch with him is difficult. With a full-time mayor, there would probably have been no difficulty in contacting him.

The Charleston City Council members find it easy to get in touch with Hickman, but the average person finds it close to impossible.

If you are a Charleston resident who needs to get in touch with Mayor Hickman, you can call his Springfield phone number, 782-6628. We wish you all the luck in the world.

You will probably get in touch with his secretary, who will either tell you he's upstairs and will be down in a minute, or that he is on his way to anywhere in the greater Illinois area.

If you want, you can leave a message, but don't hold your breath waiting for an answer.

In case you're wondering, we finally got to talk to Hickman at the conclusion of last Tuesday's city council meeting. Hickman said he was "hungry" and didn't have time to talk, but told us to call him at 10 a.m. the next morning.

We called at 10 a.m. and found he wasn't in his office so we left a message. After almost an hour-and-a-half, we received a call from his assistant saying Hickman would be in conference for the rest of the day.

We realize that holding down two jobs puts Hickman under a lot of pressure, but it seems to us he has forgotten where his roots are. After all, Charleston residents elected him to a position he is using as a spring board for bigger and better things.

Let's hope Mayor Hickman will reconsider his priorities and get back in touch with the people of Charleston.

Games, songs mean Derby Days

by Melanee Collsen

Sorority members were serenaded Monday by members of Eastern's chapter of Sigma Chi fraternity and will compete against each other the rest of the week in activities such as volleyball and painting as part of this year's Sigma Chi Derby Days.

Derby Days, a national Sigma Chi tradition, provides the opportunity for sororities to compete against each other to raise funds for charity, Wes Trombino, Derby Days co-chairman, said.

Each sorority member is contributing $1 for the Wallace Village in Broomfield, Colo., a home for minimally brain-damaged children, Trombino added.

Sororities will receive points for each activity in which they participate and a trophy will be given to the sorority that earns the most points at the conclusion of Derby Days, he said.

In addition to the serenade Monday, sorority members began painting their crests on a square of sidewalk in front of the Sigma Chi house at 1617 Ninth St., Trombino said.

Tuesday, the first round of volleyball competition will begin at 7 p.m. in McAfee Gym and semifinals will be at 8 p.m. Wednesday, he said.

"Dec-A-Sig," a skit where a sorority participates with one member of the fraternity, will be at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Union Grand Ballroom. The skits, based on the theme "The Roaring 20s," will be judged on originality, Trombino said.

Each sorority also will enter one member for the Derby Darling competition. The winner will be announced Thursday, Trombino added.

"Derby Chase" is scheduled from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Friday on the Library Quad. Sorority members receive points for their house if they pull a football flag off any Sigma Chi member.

Saturday, finals for the volleyball games are scheduled from 11 a.m. to noon in Lantz Gym, Trombino said. After the volleyball competition, various surprise games and the judging of the crest paintings will bring Derby Days to a close.

Senate topic: evaluations

Vice President for Academic Affairs Stanley Rives and Donald Dolton, president of University Professionals of Illinois, will address the Faculty Senate Tuesday on teacher evaluations.

The Faculty Senate last week voted to request that more research be done on the reliability and validity of student evaluations of instructors. The request was sent to Rives.

Faculty Senate Chairman Jeff Lynch said Rives and Dolton will discuss what effect teacher evaluations have on faculty retention, promotion and tenure.

Union prize-drawing quick rule change called unfair

by Kris Nicholson

Some students called a last-minute change in prize-drawing rules "unfair" at the conclusion of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union's 25th anniversary celebration Friday.

The week's activities were originally scheduled to close with a drawing of prizes including $50 and $25 gift certificates, a 10-speed bicycle, and a radio-cassette tape deck.

Only those people who wrote their names on the back of a Union Bookstore sales receipt and attended the drawing Friday were eligible to win the prizes.

However, the winners of the two Union Bookstore gift certificates were not in attendance, and those who were present for drawing complained about the change in procedure.

After numerous unsuccessful attempts at drawing a winner who was present, Union Board Chairman Steve Jones announced that he would award the gift certificates to the next people picked regardless of whether they were there or not.

The $50 gift certificate was awarded to sophomore Lillian Cowart, and the $25 gift certificate to sophomore Lisa Michelini. Neither attended the drawing.

Student senator Anita Busch said people left because they no longer had to be present to win the drawing.

As the bicycle and radio-cassette prize-winners were about to be announced, several members of the audience suggested that because the prizes were bigger, Jones should continue to draw names until someone present could be named the winner.

Freshman Jackie Royer won the radio-cassette tape deck, and senior Susan Benefiel won the 10-speed bicycle.

After the drawing when several students confronted him about the unfairness of the unannounced rule change, Jones said the decision had been made "on the spot" when it seemed to be taking too long to find winners.

"Cheryl (Petrik, UB vice chairman) and I decided it had taken a long time to find the name of someone that was there," he said.

He explained that the rules concerning required attendance of winners had been made so that a large crowd would attend the drawing and reception. About 75 people attended the reception.

However, Jones estimated there were more than 1,000 sales receipts with names on the back in the drawing box.

Busch charged that the rule change was made because UB members did not want to take the time to run the drawing as it was originally planned.

Jones replied that Busch could make no accusations because she did not realize the amount of time spent planning the event.

After the names of the prize-winners were drawn Jones gave away coupons for free sandwiches at Hardee's On Campus in order to have more winners among those who were present at the drawing, he said.

Despite the cancellation of several of the week's scheduled UB events, Jones said that overall he was pleased with the results of the anniversary celebration.

He added that he extended "my regrets and apologies to those people that went away displeased."

ERAbackers defend acts

by James Talley

Breaking the law is acceptable when used as a symbol of injustice, members of the Grassroots Group of Second Class Citizens said Thursday.

"How can you break the law, if you have no rights in the first place?" group member Susan Yarber said.

The GGSCC, a Champaign-based organization, presented their views on events which occurred in Springfield when the Equal Rights Amendment came up for its final vote in Illinois.

The group's appearance was sponsored by the political science department and the Women's Student Caucus.

GGSCC members visited Eastern "to clear up much of the misunderstanding" relating to the events during the summer in Springfield, group member Bernice Carroll said.

The GGSCC, as defined on a flyer they distributed is, "...a group of women from central Illinois who are devoted to non-violent direct action to achieve equality."

When the Equal Rights Amendment came up for a final Illinois vote in Springfield, GGSCC members painted the names of ERA opponents on the marble floors of the state capitol building.

A videotape of news programs which covered the GGSCC's actions in Springfield was presented along with a few comments about the coverage by members of the group.

Carroll disagreed with the media's coverage of the incident.

"We were not splashing, spraying or squirting blood on the floors of the capital," Carroll said. "We were actually writing the names of ERA opponents in blood."

Programs give health tips

by Becky Lawson

"Eat, drink and be merry" goes the old saying, but eating and drinking in the wrong proportions can bring less than merriment.

In an attempt to provide information about eating disorders and alcoholism, the Counseling Center will offer two programs which address each problem.

"Anxious Eating—What Can I Do?," a workshop to be conducted Tuesday by Counseling Center Director Bud Sanders and counselor Genie Lenihan, will deal with the eating disorders of anorexia and bulimia.

Sanders said recent statistics show that 10 to 20 percent of the women on campus suffer from bulimia, an eating disorder which involves "binging and purging."

Victims of anorexia, on the other hand, so drastically limit their food intake that they virtually starve themselves.

In addition to reaching out to those with eating disorders, the Counseling Center will offer a seminar concerning alcoholism and dealing with someone afflicted with it.

"Living with an Alcoholic," will be presented Wednesday by Judith Brown, a certified alcoholism counselor from Charleston's Hour House, an alcohol rehabilitation center.

The seminar will involve a discussion about how to recognize a family member's problem, the effects of living with an alcoholic, how to cope with the situation, and where to obtain help.

National statistics show that one out of 10 people who drink have a problem, Brown said. "It's a sure bet that there are people at Eastern who have a problem."

The "Anxious Eating—What Can I Do?" workshop will be conducted from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesday on the Rathskeller Balcony.

The "Living with an Alcoholic" seminar will be presented at noon Wednesday in the Charleston-Mattoon and Greenup Rooms of the Union addition.

Local-motion gets campus rollin'

Clockwise from top left, although bicycling may be one of the more popular methods of transportation, it can be frustrating for both cyclists and pedestrians; walking by far is the most available means; other students prefer the fun and challenge of skateboarding as freshman Liz Vaccaricillo demonstrates; if you don't walk or drive a car you can always double up on a motorcycle; and although transportation by car is more desirable there is always the tow truck waiting to move your car if you can't. ## Players decide to strike

New York (AP) — The National Football League Players Association, set to negotiate a guaranteed piece of a billion-dollar pie, on Monday called for the first regular-season strike in the league's history, effective after that night's Green Bay Packers-New York Jets game.

The first game affected will be Monday night, between the Atlanta Falcons and the Chiefs in Kansas City. At the conclusion of tonight's game, the league will be struck," said NFL president Gene Upshaw, a guard with the Los Angeles Raiders. "No practices, no workouts, no games will be played until management engages in good-faith bargaining.

We are united. We are prepared to withhold our services for as long as it takes. The players of the NFL, as of tonight, will be on strike. We did not want to get into this position but we are forced to get management to bargain with us."

Jack Donlan, executive director of the NFL Management Council, bargaining arm of the owners, said the owners "regret that the union has chosen this path. The only difference between us seems to be length of a new contract and whether the player will be paid by individual negotiations or by means of a wage scale tied to a fund. "Therefore, we will proceed with our scheduled executive committee meeting tonight to determine our course of action. After we have informed our member clubs of our decisions and what actions they should take, we will explain our position to the public."

record for goals in a game when Principia allowed 12 Eastern shots to score. Co-captain Debbie Seybert scored six goals, setting a new record for most goals by a player in a single game.

In the Southern contest no one team dominated the game, and the only goal was notched by All-American Ellen Reichel of Southern.

The Principia game gave us a chance to get used to the new lineup," Reichel said. Reichel added that she played very well in both games and she was pleased with the team.

Spikers out to avenge defeat

by Susan McCann

With less than one third of the season behind them, Eastern's spikers already may avenge an early defeat to Bradley University.

The Panthers will face the Lady Braves at 7 p.m. Tuesday at Peoria.

Both Bradley and Eastern opened their seasons at the EIU Quadrangular, with the Lady Braves coming away with a 15-8, 8-15, 15-8 victory.

But since then, Bradley has compiled a 5-10 record, while Eastern has won seven out of 10 matches.

Bradley dropped a 15-9, 15-10, 15-10 decision to Western Illinois, a squad that Eastern downed by a 15-13, 15-13, 13-15, 15-2 score.

Also, the Lady Braves lost to both Northern Illinois and the University of Northern Iowa at the EIU Quadrangular, a pair of squads the Panthers defeated in the tournament.

Panther coach Carol Gruber said she does not plan to make major changes for her squad's rematch with Bradley, although a knee injury will keep Stacy Cook out of action "unless we really need her."

"I think basically we have our offensive and defensive patterns set," Gruber said. "We'll just throw a lot more consistency at them."

One obstacle for Bradley's young squad has been "not knowing how to win," Lady Brave coach Pam Stanek said.

The first-year Bradley coach said about nine players have been getting playing time, and six of them are freshmen.

"One of two things seems to happen. Either they get ahead and quit playing, or they really don't get started," Stanek said. "The other team might pull a couple of really good plays and then they get ahead and think they can't play with them."

"More often than not, not being able to adjust is the problem," she added.

Stanek said her young squad has shown the ability to rally. For example, in last Saturday's Central Missouri State Invitational, the Lady Braves trailed the host team 13-0 in the semifinal's deciding game.

Although Bradley eventually lost the contest, the Braves bounced back to within 13-9 before Central Missouri could secure the victory.

However, she said her spikers have performed consistently better, especially in terms of team play.

Stacy Besjak, a 5-foot-8 freshman, is injured and her status for the match with Eastern is "unsure," Stanek said.

Because Besjak's injury hampered her performance last weekend, Kathy Bickler, another freshman, stepped in and did a commendable job, Stanek said.

In addition, 5-foot-10 sophomore Sandi Kasting also has played well this season, Stanek added.

After meeting Bradley, the Panthers have the opportunity to avenge a five-game loss to Louisville suffered at the Saluki Invitational last weekend.

Eastern drew Louisville in the first round of the Eastern Kentucky Tournament beginning Friday.

Field hockey to face ISU

by Kathy Leahy and Julie Deetz

Looking to return to winning ways, Eastern's field hockey team faces a strong Indiana State squad at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at Terre Haute, Ind.

The Lady Panthers enter Tuesday's contest after splitting their first home games Saturday at Lantz Field. After trouncing Principia College 12-0, Eastern dropped a 1-0 decision to rival Southern Illinois-Carbondale.

"Indiana will give us about the same kind of competition as Carbondale did," Eastern field hockey coach Beth Reichel said. "Most of the teams in our conference are pretty well evenly matched."

However, the Panthers will be at a disadvantage Tuesday because they will be playing on Astroturf for the first time this season. Consequently, Reichel said she expects some problems, but added that she foresees an even match-up.

"When playing on the Astroturf, the game goes at a much faster pace, but our team is very fast anyway," Reichel said. "We plan to prepare for the contest by holding practice indoors on a smoother surface."

Indiana enters Tuesday's contest with a rich tradition of winning after capturing the National Collegiate Athletic Association Division I title three consecutive seasons from 1975-77. The Sycamores compiled a 11-9 record last year, which included a 2-1 loss to the Panthers.

Returning to the Indiana State line-up this season is captain Krista McFarren, the Sycamores' most valuable player last year. Joining the ISU squad this season is newcomer Lershayne Symonette from Nausau, Bahamas.

ISU coach Sue Pernice said she expects Symonette to be a major contributor to the Sycamores after the loss of last season's leading scorer Kathy Smith.

Eastern gained a lot of momentum Saturday by setting two school records in their victory over Principia. The Panthers posted a

Panther soccer squad searching for team leadership

The other day, Eastern soccer coach Schellas Hyndman made a few remarks concerning his 1982 team, among them a remark that he desperately needed a team leader to get everyone in high spirits for the games.

I found Hyndman's questioning of his team's personality interesting, but even more stirring was the fact that he said the Panther's performance this past weekend was going to have a lot to say as far as where Eastern soccer is going this season.

Going into Friday's action against Creighton the Panthers owned a 2-1 record—not bad by some standards but not typical of the talent Hyndman's squad boasts. After the victory over the Bluejays and the "disturbing" tie with Quincy, Eastern has a 3-1-1 mark, good for a .600 winning percentage.

But if the past two games are any indication of where the Panthers are headed, as Hyndman stressed, it could be a puzzling year.

First look at the Creighton game. For 80 minutes the Panthers weaved in and out of the midfield area, in total control of the ball most of the time. That, however, just about sums it up. There was little offensive punch to speak of.

Then after Damien Kelly chalked up his first goal of the season on a brilliant effort, the offensive firepower was awesome. The crowd was treated to some of the most wide-open soccer by the Panthers in recent memory, with only Creighton's acrobatic goaltender Jim Dalla Riva preventing a scoring landslide.

Against Quincy, the Eastern crew picked up where they left off, taking a quick 2-0 lead in the first half.

Behind the byline:

Jim Woodcock

It looked as if perhaps the problems were solved.

Not quite. Although the Panthers played a whale of a game against an extremely talented Quincy team, they allowed the Hawks to bounce back twice to gain the tie. When you play well and have to settle for a draw, you have to be as concerned as Hyndman was.

The Panthers are concerned, though, and they are the first ones to admit it.

"Yes, we have been struggling," midfielder Aldo Esposito said, and Kelly disclosed that he is aware his scoring doesn't match his capabilities.

The Panthers are a talent-laden company, as the presence of two All-Americans would indicate. In addition, they have played only five games and have been victorious in three of them. It is not a time to panic.

At the same time, however, Eastern fully expected to have a better record at this point in the 1982 campaign. And the talk about the absence of a "team leader" may be what Hyndman hopes will get his players motivated in searching for that needed person.

At any rate, the Panthers are a gifted group capable of better results than they have shown this season. When you have the potential they possess, you have to be concerned one-third of the way into the season.
